There are many new products being tested and added on an ongoing basis, message Mike if you would like him to grow anything in addition to the below list, or if you would like to be put on a new products “try out” list.

Availability is dependent on many factors, firstly we have a wet and dry season, both come with growing challenges that we have many years of experience, but at times, weather patterns do arrive that are not favorable to growing, so though items can be marked all year, some weeks product may not be available. Seasonal products are generally listed either due to a new product and production is not at 100% due to (seed harvesting, weather challenges, or growing challenges that are being overcome). If you want to know more about seasonal availability its best to contact Mike as he can answer your questions directly.
